

a $20.00 bill and said "I know you are up against it, Whip." Mr. Ramage still holding the bills in his hand, then said "I am going to place this with the County Commissioners for restitution, it will make them feel better." Mr. Scott and I then left the office together. When we reached the street, I said to Mr. Scott "How in H-- did you get a hold of a thousand dollars so quick" and this is what he told me. "I went to Joe Grut at the Continental Bank and put up my car as collateral, and Al Harris went on the note with me." On or about April 26th, 1922, Mr. Scott and I again called on Mr. Ramage at the Boston Bldg. and Mr. Scott asked Mr. Ramage if he had placed the $950.00 with the County Commissioners. He replied "I have placed my check with the the Commissioners for the $950.00 which they are holding." About this time, Mr. Scott told me that Mr. Grut of the Bank had called on him to pay the $1,000.00 or get collateral which would be approved by the Bank Examiners, as automobile papers was not acceptable. Mr. Scott then claims he secured Liberty Bonds from his father-in-law at American Fork and had placed them with Mr. Grut, as security. At the time of the Audit in 1922, Mr. Goddard went to the National Copper Bank to analyze Mr. Scott's bank account. He did not pretend to analyze my bank account. It is reported that Mr. Goddard had said the tellers at the bank had told him that Mr. Scott had cashed all the warrants under suspicion of being irregular as per their records of the listing. These records can be verified at the Bank. Mr. Scott had been carrying a checking account regularly for a number of years previous to and during 1921 at the National Copper Bank. I personally know that he was also very well acquainted with Mr. Nichols at the bank who was the teller at the "S" window and waited on Mr. Scott and myself. I had been running a checking account at the same bank for nearly a year. Mr. Scott gave me the introduction to Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Nichols of the Bank. It was customary when I presented a check for cashing or to be placed to my credit at the bank for the teller to turn the check and look for my endorsement, and if it did not appear on the reverse side of the check I was told to put my endorsement on it. All the warrants and time checks under question were cashed at the National Copper Bank but do not carry Mr. Scott's or my endorsements on the back thereof. Mr. Scott is well acquainted with the tellers and officials of the National Copper Bank.

During the latter part of April, one information was filed against Mr. Scott, sworn to by Commissioner Burgon. This information contained 2 counts, one of forgery and one of obtaining the money. The warrant upon which this information was filed was made out to J. H. Hilton. Mr. Scott accused me of being responsible for this complaint being sworn out to which I replied that I had nothing to do with it and that it seemed d-- funny that I should be charged with forging signatures on seven warrants and he only one when all the endorsements were in the same handwriting.

I could not obtain any work during the summer of 1922 with these charges hanging over me and the only means of subsistence I and my wife had was from a position my wife had with the Utah Power
