

THE COURT: Have you questioned this man before Judge Rogers?

MR KING: He was found in possession of these stolen goods soon after they were taken. He said he didn't take them, they were left with him to put on the train. He has no witnesses, no defense.

THE COURT: You went up there that night you said to sleep somewhere, until the train came, where was that?

THE DEFENDANT: Well, the train--

THE COURT: Listen to me and answer the questions. You say you were coming to town, did you go to the depot or some place near the depot?

THE DEFENDANT: There is a small depot there right down from the office--the place where the men come down to get on the train.

THE COURT: I understand that, was that the place where you were?

THE DEFENDANT: That is the place where I was waiting at that time.

THE COURT: You were there all alone?

THE DEFENDANT: No, sir, that fellow that was going to bring me to town and get me a room in town, he and I were together. Well, he got on the train, just as she came around the bend, well, I can't get on it, because she is going too fast for me. Well, then when I got down there was a side track, there is a side track there, and there was a box car there, and a guy says to me, are you going to get on that train. I says yes, and he says will
