

A Yes sir.

Q Where did you have these troubles? A. In Detroit.

Q What did you mean by "disorderly conduct"?

A Well, drinking and stuff like that.

Q Did you ever commit burglary before? A. No sir.

Q Did you ever steal anything before?

A I have stole things before, but not to amount to anything.
I never got caught at it.

Q But you have taken things before that did not belong to you?

MR. TOBIN: Did you ever break in any house, break the door?

A No sir.

Q What did you have in mind doing with this stuff you took out of her place there?

A Not anything.

Q What was it you took?

A I dont remember now, Judge, what it was-- pillow-slips and stuff like that.

Q What were you going to do with them?

A I was not going to do anything.

Q Did you need money?

A No sir, because I was going to return the stuff to her.

Q What were you going to use the stuff for?

A I was not going to use them at all. I just had them at the place there and was going to take them back to her.

Q You must have had some purpose when you went into the house and took them away, didn't you? Didn't you have some idea in your head what you were going to do with that stuff?

A No sir.

Q You did not? A. No sir.
