

THE COURT: Mr. Clerk, will you read this information.
Just listen to the reading of the information.

(Clerk reads information)

THE COURT: Let the record show that the defendant is handed a true copy of the information. Do you desire to enter your plea to this charge at this time?

DEFENDANT: Yes, sir, I can just as well make my plea at this time.

THE COURT: You don't care to be represented by an attorney, do you?

DEFENDANT: Oh, no, no, sir.

THE COURT: And desire to enter your plea now. All right. To this charge which has just been read to you, what plea do you enter, guilty or not guilty?

DEFENDANT: Well, I plead guilty to the charge, but I wanted to say that my wife was suing for a divorce--

THE COURT: Just a moment. Let the plea of guilty be entered. Now, you desire to have the court impose sentence at this time?

DEFENDANT: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: Have you anything, now, to say, then, why sentence should not be imposed upon you?

DEFENDANT: Well, all that I was going to explain, my wife she is suing for divorce, and I have tried to make up. She willed that, and just the same on the other side, and when she left her home they had arranged to separate, which they agreed to and they separated, and of course she went home and all that I really can say that this woman now will have to be throwed on the public with the shame and I intend
