

but it is very hard for her and she worries so about the baby and her daddy.

She is a Mormon girl and I thought her people would do some thing to help her. She has always told me how the Mormon people stick to gether, help each other in spite of every thing but it seems as though there is no one to help her.
I guess every body has a hard time to get along.

I have helped as much as I could but we too are poor people our selves and just make ends meet.

I know my boy should not have done what he did, but they absolutely
