THE COURT: Your parents live in White Plains, New York?

DEFENDANT WILLIAMS: Sir?

THE COURT: Your parents live in White Plains, New York?

DEFENDANT WILLIAMS: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: How old are you now?

Defendant Williams: Eighteen years old.

THE COURT: What is your father's occupation?

DEFENDANT WILLIAMS: He is an engineer.

THE COURT: A railroad engineer?

DEFENDANT WILLIAMS: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: What have you worked at before, Mr. Williams?

DEFENDANT WILLIAMS: Well, I haven't no trade, I have been just laboring.

THE COURT: Just a laborer. You have some education?

DEFENDANT WILLIAMS: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: How far did you go with your schooling?

DEFENDANT WILLIAMS: I went to the 7th grade.

THE COURT: Since you left home, you have had no trouble whatever?

DEFENDANT WILLIAMS: No, sir.

THE COURT: And your record at home is clean?

DEFENDANT WILLIAMS: Yes, sir.

THE COURT: If the Court exercises leniency in your case, Mr. Williams, makes a recommendation for a comparatively light sentence, do you feel that it would do any
