

ing stones in, and I got mad and picked up a chair and threw it and broke the two top windows.

THE COURT: Where did you live prior to coming to this country?

THE DEFENDANT: I just came from Chicago.

THE COURT: Lived in Chicago all your life?

THE DEFENDANT: Yes.

THE COURT: What did you do in Chicago?

THE DEFENDANT: Worked in machine shops, and I came here right after I got out of the army.

THE COURT: Did you serve in the army?

THE DEFENDANT: Thirty-one months.

THE COURT: Did you go overseas?

THE DEFENDANT: I was thirty-one months overseas.

THE COURT: Never been in any trouble before in your life?

THE DEFENDANT: No, sir.

THE COURT: Where are your folks?

THE DEFENDANT: Living in Chicago.

THE COURT: Do they know about you being in this trouble?

THE DEFENDANT: No, sir. They are kind of old, and I didnt like to let them know. It kind of worries them.

THE COURT: What recommendation have you got to make Mr. Crafts?

MR. CRAFTS: In this case I would rest on the recommendation of the town marshal and the sheriff. His main trouble there is drunkenness. He has been arrested several times on that charge; and he was given an opportunity to pay this fine, and they let him out, and of course the damage has never been paid; and they feel that something ought to be done.
