having the value of $300.00, it being the personal property of C. J. Samuel, and in his possession. To this offense you have pleaded that you are guilty, and this is the time for pronouncing the judgment of the court. Have you any reason to say why the court should not now pronounce judgment?

THE DEFENDANT EVANS: No sir.

THE COURT: The judgment of the court is that you be taken by the sheriff of this county to the State Prison, and there confined for a term not less than the minimum provided by law for the crime of grand larceny, and not more than the maximum provided by law for said offense.
